Kinaid of Louisville, John W. Douglas of Owenton, and Judge J. P. Finnell of Georgetown. The same attorneys will assist Prosecutor Franklin as in the first trial.

Over sixty witnesses have been summoned, and it is said that this trial will be conducted on lines of marked difference from that of last year. It is generall believed that both sides have secured much new evidence.

A comparative summary traffic on the great lakes for August shows a gain in the number of barrels of flour received, in the tons of minerals and coal and in the quantity of logs and unclassified freight handled. The grain receipts and shipments are at this stage of the season still far behind the aggregate of last year.

On the Atlantic seaboard the four principal ports received the following quantities of grain during August, 1901, compared with the same month of 1900: New York, 10.355,194 bushels, against 14.872,022 bushels, which includes in both cases flour and meal reduced to bushels; Boston, 3,363,989 bushels, against 2,872,727 bushels; Philadelphia, including flour reduced to bushels, 4,316,325, against 5,471,443; Baltimore, 8,510,-494 bushels, against 5,774,760 bushels. The figures for Baltimore include only the four principal cereals and flour reduced to bushels, while the Philadelphia figures do not include rye. Possibly the most remarkable phenomenon in the month's grain trade is the increase in the receipts of wheat at Baltimore for August, from 1,340,-006 bushels in 1900 to 6,062,164 bushels in 1901. The coal receipts at Boston for the eight months ending August, 1901, have aggregated 3,304,333 tons from all sources. A calculation shows that the stocks remaining at domestic ports at the close of the cotton year amounted to 2.3 per cent. of the entire crop. The demands of Southern spinners required 1,620,931 bales, and Northern spinners 1,957,570 bales. A comparison of coastwise and foreign shipments at New Orleans gives the distinctive features of the coastwise trade, including shipments of sugar, molasses, rice, hides, wool and cotton-seed products. SIR THOMAS LIPTON'S PLANS.

Feast for Shamrock's Crew.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6 .- Sir Thomas Lipton had the first day of absolute rest to-day that he has had since he arrived. The Erin was at anchor off West Twenty-sixth street, but near to the Jersey shore, and her owner remained on board all day. There were very few visitors. Mr. and Mrs. Jameson and Mr. Watson had gone to Glen Cove on a visit and the Duke of Alba was at his hotel in New York, so YEAR | Sir Thomas had the ship to himself.

When asked about his plans for the near future, he said: "After the dinner at the New York Yacht Club Tuesday night J have a number of invitations to various clubs, but I have not yet decided which I shall be able to accept, as my time is very limited. I shall go to Chicago, to be the guest of the Chicago Athietic Club on Tuesday of next week, leaving here Monday for that place. It is not likely the Shamrock will remain in commission. I am very sorry she did not win at least one race. However, I am going to give Captain Sycamore and the crew of the Shamrock a banquet. It will probably be on Thursday night. I feel that they have done their best to make the boat win.' From another source it was learned that there is a hope on board the Erin and Shamrock that another race for the America's cup may be arranged, to be sailed next year.
